Special Town Meeting is scheduled for Oct. 23

By Neil Fater

With several years worth of expensive garbage piles and a mid-November deadline figuratively staring them in the face, Andover's selectmen Monday called a Special Town Meeting for Wednesday, Oct. 23.

The key article on the Special Town Meeting warrant will ask residents to consider whether Andover should extend its agreement with a North Andover trash-to-energy plant.

Andover's current contract will expire in 2005, but Buzz Stapczynski, town manager, said the cost of garbage disposal will balloon over the remaining years of the contract. Mr. Stapczynski said Andover could elongate the contract another 10 years "to ease out the burden, the financial impact."

Andover and other North East Solid Waste Committee communities are required to decide what they will do by Nov. 15, he said [see a related article, page 6.]

Andover officials consider this to be a critical financial decision.

"It's huge," said Barry Finegold, selectman. "What we pay to dump our trash compared to what other towns pay is night-and-day, and that just means a higher cost to the taxpayer."

Special Town Meeting will begin at 7 p.m. Oct. 23 in the West Middle School auditorium. Residents can place private articles on the warrant between Sept. 25 and Oct. 2 if they acquire 100 certified signatures of registered voters.

Including the anything-but-throwaway NESWC item, Mr. Stapczynski expects about a dozen warrant articles and there may be as many as five articles dealing with management of residential growth.

Officials are careful to paint the growth-management articles as "fine-tunings" of the existing bylaws because they don't want to spark another run on the planning department by nervous developers. Such a run was pushed this spring by talk of passing strong growth-control articles at April Town Meeting.

Mr. Finegold, Michael Miller and Steve Colyer, planning director, have been studying the growth issue.

"We've been working on what could be done right now to help out in terms of preserving open space, et cetera. Some of the

A personal and political look at Candidate James Fox

This is the first of three profiles of the candidates for State Representative in the 17th Essex district the Townsman will run between now and the Sept. 17 state primary election.

By Neil Fater

A former keeper of bees and an avid gardener, Jim Fox is looking to cultivate support for his run to become state representative of the 17th Essex district.

Running on a platform of "fiscal responsibility, a solid educational agenda and a strong public safety program," Mr. Fox is the lone Republican in a three-person race. He will face either Barry Finegold or Denise Parsons on the November ballot.

During a trip around the outskirts of his Walnut Avenue home, Mr. Fox points out tomatoes, cucumbers, zucchini, concord grapes and formerly-tapped maple trees.

A look into his free time produces a profile in cabbage.

"I get a little razzing about that. I sometimes get a little excessive," he admits.

Mr. Fox once visited New Hampshire land he owns every weekend, and he has grown white grapes, fruit trees, sunflowers, watermelon, peas and up to 125

ABC house gets a facelift

It's that time of year again - time to think about getting back to school. And friends of Andover's A Better Chance program were doing that last Saturday, Aug. 17, when vol-

Lucy Bernardin of Victorian Treats at 68 Park St. assists while Shawn Noonan of Andover picks the winners of the Leukemia Society summer raffle.

The Leukemia Society's summer raffle grand prize of two nights at Harbor House on Nantucket went to Marlene Murch of Haverhill, according to Lucy Bernardin of Victorian Treats, 68 Park St. Ms. Bernardin organized the raffle.

As part of her grand prize, Ms. Murch also received a pair of Nantucket basket earrings donated by Royal Jewelers.

Other winners included Drew Bourdeau of Plum Island, Liz Nolan of Brookline, Pam Martell of Haverhill, Susan Fargular of Andover, Stephen Colella of Natick, Sue Worthen of North Andover, and Denise Fiorentino, Christine Robertson, Carolyn Bernardin, Walter McKertich and Susan Ingram, all of Andover.

"The 1996 Mayor's Midnight Sun Marathon went extremely well. Our National team of 1,700 people raised over $5.2 million for The Leukemia Society of America. The personal rewards have been incredible, and as I continue to train for my next marathon the fund raising continues. So far this year I've raised $7,300, with hopes of topping $10,000 by year's end," Ms. Bernardin said.

Tomorrow night, Friday, Aug. 23, the New England Patriots will play the Washington Redskins at Foxboro Stadium, and Andover resident Michael Lastrina will be on the sideline.

Mr. Lastrina is working toward his master's degree in sport management at Springfield College. The final requirement is an internship within the industry of sport. In May, Mr. Lastrina was offered an internship position with the Washington Redskins scouting department.

He spent the five weeks in Frostburg, Md., where the Redskins conducted summer camp at Frostburg State University. His responsibilities included coordinating scouting trips, aiding with play development and assisting coaches with practice.

According to Mr. Lastrina, it was an invaluable experience. The highlights included coming out of the tunnel at both the Silver Dome and RFK Stadium.

"I had never been in RFK. This being the last year the Redskins play in it before moving to their new home made it exciting."

He said working with the coaches, players, scouts and other interns made the internship enjoyable.

"Working with quarterback coach Cam Cameron, who informed me that he had visited Andover while coaching at Michigan to recruit Joe Marinaro, was exciting."

Mr. Lastrina said another thrill was the night he and guard Bob Dahl sat around while Coach Jim Hanifan told stories about two of his former players, pro bowlers Conrad Dobler and Dan Dierdorf. Coach Hanifan was Dan Dierdorf's presenter at his induction into the Hall of Fame this past July in Canton, Ohio.

Mr. Lastrina aspires to work within player personnel and to obtain a degree in law while working for an NFL franchise. For now he is on the job hunt and will be a volunteer assistant with the Redskins at their away games.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Health clinic for elders is Monday

Home Health VNA will offer a free elder health clinic at Frye Circle Monday, Aug. 26, from 1 to 3 p.m.

The clinic is conducted by Home Health VNA registered nurses and sponsored in part through town funds and through funding from the Older Americans Act as granted by Elder Services of the Merrimack Valley.

Clinics in Andover are staffed jointly by Home Health VNA and the Andover Health Department.

Call the health department at 623-8200, or Home Health VNA at 373-1141, Ext. 3150, for further information.

Women's Center needs volunteers

The Women's Resource Center of Lawrence and Haverhill has volunteer opportunities in its sexual assault program.

After completion of 48-hours of training, volunteers will become Massachusetts certified rape crisis counselors. The next training will begin Oct. 1. For more information or for an application, call Liz or Heidi at 685-2480.

Junk car donations helping fund schools

"Send Your Car" is the message being relayed across Massachusetts by the Donations For Educational Enrichment Program, spawned by a program run by the Danvers enrichment group. A number of schools are fattening their treasury by collecting unwanted vehicles.

Schools are invited to join the program. There is no cost and the charitable contributions gained can be great. To donate a car or to find out how to enroll a school, call 1-800-859-6526.

If you were in the Park Thursday, Aug. 1, you probably came across the Teddy Bear's picnic. More than 40 children ages 1-6 and their parents gathered for the annual DCS Teddy Bear's Picnic. Children brought their favorite bears and participated in crafts and games. The festivities peaked when Crispin, a giant teddy bear from Crispins Bears, led the children on a parade and a treasure hunt.

Skin cancer detection program offered

The Cancer Management Center at Holy Family Hospital in Methuen will sponsor a community education program entitled, "Skin Cancer - Prevention and Early Detection"

Tuesday, Aug. 27, from 6-7 p.m. in the hospital's auditorium.

Dr. David Goldminz, a dermatologist with privileges at Holy Family Hospital, will be the guest speaker. This program is being offered free of charge and is open to the public.

No preregistration is necessary.

Early deadlines for Labor Day week

Due to the Townsmen being closed Labor Day, Monday, Sept. 2, the deadline for display ads and news for the Sept. 5 issue will be Friday, Aug. 30, at noon.

The deadline for classified ads will remain Tuesday at noon.

Clarification

Due to a reporting error, a photo caption in last week's Townsmen incorrectly stated that Dolls for Dolls International sells the dolls its volunteers make and donates the proceeds to AIDS babies. In fact, Dolls for Dolls does not sell the dolls, but gives them to children who have AIDS.

tomato plants there. He even kept bees in New Hampshire for a time.

Another of Mr. Fox's passions is history, and he admits if he had it to do all over again he might have avoided the securities business and become a history teacher.

"He loves books, absolutely loves books," says Ruth Ann Fox, his wife.

"I have to sneak them into the house," says Mr. Fox, standing in a room with several packed shelves and an additional neat pile of books in one corner.

"Well," answers Ms. Fox, "you've been doing a good job sneaking."

The candidate

Mr. Fox has nine children, 12 grandchildren, and says he is part of a competitive family that loves to play chess.

He was a Democrat until five years ago – was even a member of the Democratic Town Committee – but said he switched parties because he often found himself voting for Republicans.

"I'd rather vote for an individual who has good qualifications than vote for someone bad within my party," he said. "The Democratic party changed more than I did. (Today) the Republican Party represents the working person much better."

During a lengthy interview, Mr. Fox talked about numerous issues, including several with which a state representative traditionally has little to do. He said he is running because Andover has been good to him and now it's payback time.

"I really want to – rather than sitting sometimes and grumbling about how things should be – I want to put in my best effort for the community," he said.

Mr. Fox said the business tax rate should be closer to the residential rate because businesses are "as important as any homeowner in town."

Mr. Fox believes the state hasn't marketed itself well enough to outside businesses and he said his experience in the business sector will be "an asset to bring business into both Lawrence and Andover."

He also believes there are too many environmental laws, permits and restrictions placed on land owners.

Ruth Ann and James Fox

"We should have a long-term plan, but not a long-term plan to restrict growth," he said. "Everybody would always like everything to stay the same forever."

"We have too many laws and we keep building law after law on top of things and it's very foolish," he said. "There's an old saying, 'Measure twice and cut once.' I don't know if we do all that in government."

Mr. Fox said the plan to narrow Route 28 at Phillips Academy to one lane "is absolutely idiotic," and he categorized recent state moves to give back about $50 to state taxpayers and to allow some people to ride toll roads for free as "ridiculous."

Mr. Fox suggested a real benefit to taxpayers in northern Mass. would be to lower the state sales tax over the next 10 years.

"Then the typical person will think twice before he takes the Salem, N.H., jaunt," he said. "That would be one area that I think could have a major impact on our district.

As a state representative, Mr. Fox said he will check the sidewalks in his district to make sure they are safe.

However, Mr. Fox's platform focuses heavily on public education and public safety.

Mr. Fox said he wants to lower the cost of state colleges and believes in extending the school day. Teachers should make more money if the school day is extended, he said, and he might support bonus pay for teachers who show outstanding work in certain lacking areas.

Providing money for training and equipment such as new finger printing machines are some of the ways he would support local police.

Jim Fox would attend to sidewalks, education, public safety

"A lot of things I propose would not apply to Andover, Brookline, Newton. Those are all good school systems," he said. "I'm satisfied with the education system here (in Andover.)"

"Where my needs would be greater is in Lawrence," he said. "Most of my crusading work will be to help Lawrence in public safety and education. I think Andover has done a good job."

The race, Fox's outlook

Mr. Fox does not think people have done a good job setting up the election process, however.

"Most of them (candidates) are nice people. Most of them know how to be elected. Most of them know how to walk the district," he said. "That's why the system has changed (so little). They're good at being elected but they're poor at being what they promise."

Mr. Fox said the election

trail "should not be the place where someone who doesn't have a lot of life experience goes out and does the right thing and gets elected but he's lost in the system."

This comment seems to be a shot at fellow candidate

Barry Finegold, a 25-year-old selectmen, and Mr. Fox does concede he considers Mr. Finegold a more likely November rival.

"I think Barry Finegold has much more support within his Democratic Party," said Mr. Fox. "I think on the football team he would make a great guard. Would he make a great QB? It's up to the town to decide."

Mr. Fox said he believes a victory by Denise Parsons "would be an upset, but I wouldn't write her off. In many ways she would be a harder person for me to run against because I can't say, 'I'm a taxpayer. I've been successful in business for a number of years.'"

Mr. Fox said part of his campaign goal is "to neutralize" Lawrence, where Democrats outnumber Republicans about five to one.

"I understand where these people are coming from. I have two sons who live in Lawrence," he said. "Actually this is one of the reasons I'm running. Lots of things are happening in our country that are frightening. Young people can't buy a house in Andover."

NESWC contract subject of Special Town Meeting

The Massachusetts legislative session adjourned earlier this month without taking action on a proposed capital projects bond bill that would have provided much needed financial relief to the consortium of 23 Massachusetts communities known as the North East Solid Waste Committee. The funding initiative was passed over despite being approved separately by the House of Representatives July 18, and by the Senate July 25, according to NESWC officials.

The NESWC communities, which include Andover, had requested $22 million as a partial reimbursement for the costs to retrofit the North Andover waste-to-energy plant to meet federal and state air emission standards stemming from the Clean Air Act Amendments of 1990.

Andover selectmen this week scheduled a Special Town Meeting for Wednesday, Oct. 23, primarily to address changes in the NESWC contract, which will impact the amount Andover pays for trash disposal during the next 20 years.

Because of a long-term waste disposal contract negotiated in the early 1980s, NESWC communities are forced to pay for any required upgrades to the waste-to-energy plant. Without state funding, taxpayers in the 23 communities will see trash fees increase substantially to cover tens of millions of dollars worth of air-pollution control equipment.

Steven M. Rothstein, executive director of NESWC, said, "The NESWC communities already pay twice the statewide average for trash disposal. This is an excessive financial burden, one that the communities need help to meet. The Commonwealth of Massachusetts sponsored the establishment of NESWC and we believe they have some responsibility to address the current situation. NESWC is also seeking federal assistance to meet this financial obligation, since it is the direct result of a costly unfunded federal mandate."

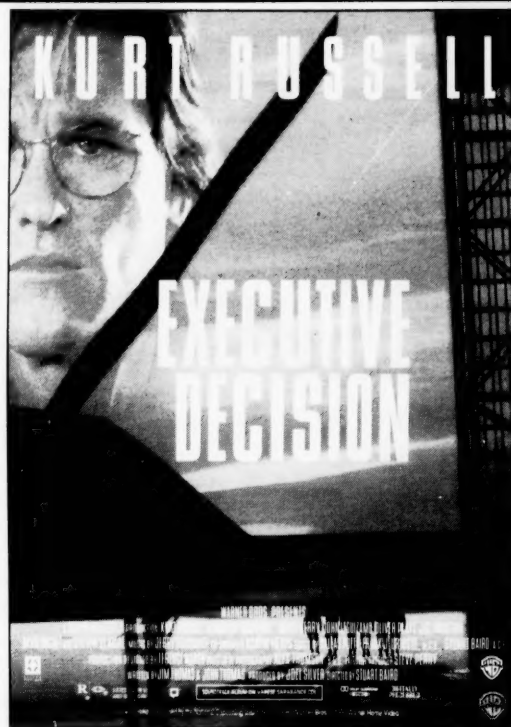

The Clean Air Act requirements and other financial aspects of the current contract will push the trash disposal fees to approximately $180 per ton prior to the end of the existing contract in 2005. NESWC, which represents almost 500,000 Massachusetts residents, is currently seeking to renegotiate the existing trash disposal agreement with the plant operator, MRI, and their corporate parent, Wheelabrator Technologies Inc. If these negotiations are successful, the new agreement will help to stabilize the trash disposal fee for 20 years and reduce the financial risks the communities currently face. Town Meeting goers will be given a choice that will come down whether they want to pay more now in exchange for long-term stability on the fees, or a bit less of an increase now in exchange for a slightly less secure future.

"These state funds would have slowed the growth of the NESWC tip fees," said Robert W. Moroney, chairman of the board of directors and director of Public Works for the town of Manchester-By-The-Sea. "These funds are important to NESWC and we plan to renew our request during the next legislative session. Most members of the NESWC legislative delegation and certain legislative leaders were very supportive during the past few months. However, we have not yet received a commitment from the Governor. We are very eager to hear what the Governor's position is on this critical issue."

At The Vineyard, food or wine comes with an escort

By Don Staruk

One wine company claims it will "sell no wine before its time." Well, there is a new local store whose owners believe it's time to sell not only the wine, but also cigars, pastry and gourmet prepared foods all under one roof.

The owners of Andover Liquors and The Butler's Pantry have combined forces to open The Vineyard in the Crossroads Plaza at the junction of routes 114 and 125 in North Andover.

Joseph Hoffman, John Grange and Rich Daly, owners of Andover Liquors, brought their expertise on liquor and cigars. Jonathan and Toni Weber, owners of Butler's, added knowledge of gourmet foods and a dash of pastry to create the new specialty store.

"There's nothing like this for 100 miles around," Mr. Hoffman said during a recent tour of the new store. "This is really two stores in one - it's really four stores."

"What we decided when we planned this store is, you can't just sell wine alone, and you can't just sell food alone, but you need pairings," Mr. Hoffman said. "The cutting edge is going to be this kind of store."

Andover Bank buys Fleet's Londonderry branch building

Last month Andover Bank NH, subsidiary of Andover Bancorp, was the successful bidder on the former Fleet branch at 62 Nashua Road, Route 102, Londonderry, N.H. The real estate transaction was finalized July 19 and plans are underway to make the site a fully operational branch office, pending regulatory approval.

Applications have been filed with the FDIC and State of New Hampshire requesting permission to establish a branch office at the site. The required legal notices have been published. An October 1996 opening date is planned.

"This purchase is of strategic importance to the bank's commitment to expand its southern New Hampshire operations and presents us with the ability to leverage our current success in Salem," said Gerald T. Mulligan, president and CEO of Andover Bank.

ADS Group purchases continuing care center

Deaconess-Nashoba Hospital and The ADS Group, which has headquarters at Brickstone Square, have completed the purchase of the 123-bed Apple Valley Continuing Care Center adjoining the hospital. The terms of the agreement make the hospital and the ADS Group equal partners in the facility, with The ADS Group responsible for providing management services.

The ADS Group, a nationally recognized health care organization that specializes in long-term care and senior living needs, recently signed a letter of intent to merge with The Multicare Companies, a national publicly traded company which operates 100 long-term care facilities across the country.

The ADS Group will manage the New England operations, and the name, philosophy, and management will not change. Alan D. Solomont, ADS founder and chairman said, "We chose a path that will keep us strong in Massachusetts and will open new doors for growth. ADS was built on a foundation of strong relationships with all the local communities we serve, and we intend to keep that philosophy at the core of our business." Mr. Solomont will serve as vice chairman of the Multicare Companies and Susan S. Bailis as president and CEO of The ADS Group, a wholly owned subsidiary of Multicare, as well as senior vice president of Multicare.

The Vineyard

Certain foods are paired with certain wines and vice versa, he said.

A week-long grand opening for the new store will begin Saturday, Sept. 7 and run through Friday, Sept. 13. A portion of sales during that time will be donated to Andover and North Andover for the purchase of playground equipment. The Mill City Jazz Band will open the celebration Saturday with entertainment from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. Throughout the week there will be wine and food tastings and giveaways.

The right time and place

Mr. Hoffman and Mr. Weber had been discussing the idea of the new store for more than five years, and began making specific plans for it a year ago.

They had done wine tastings together at the Andover Inn, with Andover Liquors providing the drink and Butler's the cheese, and those worked well, they said. "So it's sort of a natural progression," Mr. Weber said.

Mr. Hoffman said 3,500 cars a day go by the store, and the customer base includes the adjacent Royal Crest apartments, the Merrimack College faculty, and the commercial and industrial areas across and down Route 114, a total of roughly 5,000 employees within a two-mile radius.

"You couldn't get a better location for this store," Mr. Hoffman said.

Bakery section

The bakery section sells muffins and bagels baked in the store, seven kinds of coffee and Iggy's bread. Iggy's bread, made in Watertown, has been a big hit in town since Andover Liquors began taking orders for it about a year ago.

The Vineyard also has other breads, including some from a New York-style bakery in York, Maine, called When Pigs Fly.

"We use his bread for sandwiches, a wonderful crusty bread," Mr. Hoffman said.

In the sweets department, the store features fresh cookies and scones, and "We've got real New York crumb cake that comes up from New York," according to Mr. Weber.

The coffee, from White Coffee Co. in New York City, was chosen after coffee tastings by Mr. Weber with five different companies. The store has a machine for cappuccino by the cup in a tall take-out cup so the froth doesn't get squashed.

There is also a Granita machine, which makes "sort of an Italian version of slush" in fruit flavors and cappuccino. Another machine makes fresh squeezed orange juice by the cup.

There is a wide variety of pastries including specialties from Hoff's Kitchen in Medford.

Wine, beer and cigars

Cigars are in vogue these days, according to these business people. Evidence of this surfaced a couple of weeks ago when customs agents stopped suspected drug smugglers off Florida and found, along with marijuana, more than $100,000 worth of Cuban cigars packed in coolers on board.

"One of the tricks in the cigar industry today is getting the cigars,"

Mr. Hoffman said.

Mr. Daly and Tom Wilcox, a cigar consultant for the store, this fall will attend the Tobacco Retailers Association of America convention in Cincinnati to make connections for buying cigars for The Vineyard.

"All the cigar people will be there," Mr. Hoffman said.

Hand rolled cigars are available only in limited numbers, he said, and who you know makes a big difference in what you get.

The Vineyard has a humidor, a small room that keeps the cigars at about 75 percent humidity, to keep them from drying out.

Mr. Daly is in charge of the cigars and the beer for the store, which touts 100 different micro-brews from all over the world. Mr. Grange chooses the wine.

"We don't sell any wine that John doesn't taste first," Mr. Hoffman said. "They can be highly touted wines, but if John doesn't like them, they don't come in here."

The Vineyard

"We're trying always to find the $10 bottle of wine that tastes like $15," Mr. Grange said.

Another person who helps make the store work is Susan Spooner, a wine consultant who has a "very very profound wine knowledge," according to Mr. Grange.

"Since more women than men buy wine, it's important to us that we have someone who's attentive to the buying patterns and habits of women," Mr. Grange said.

Deli section

The deli section includes chocolates, cheeses and meats, along with an always changing assortment of prepared foods.

The Vineyard has a dehumidified case for its specialty chocolates, which include Joseph Schmidt truffles from San Francisco, and hedgehogs, which are Belgian chocolate with hazelnut truffle inside that are made in Canada.

"Humidity is what spoils chocolate and makes it bloom and go white," Mr. Weber said.

The Vineyard stocks goat cheese, which Mr. Weber touts as being lower in butter fat than other cheeses. The store carries about 60 different kinds of cheese at any one time.

The deli, overseen by deli specialist Jack Golden of Andover, carries Boar's Head meats, and Mr. Golden prepares a brisket using his own recipe.

There are also salads and a slew of prepared pastas, meats and other dishes.

The Vineyard has a full kitchen and chef Jay Lefebvre, a former Marriott

Corp. banquet chef, to prepare foods. Chef Lefebvre puts together a wide variety of foods-to-go on a daily basis specifically for the person who doesn't want to do any cooking whatsoever. "We're catering to an educated customer," Chef Lefebvre said.

The Vineyard will do special orders, and does catering.

"And we'll cook whatever they want," Mr. Weber said.

Another important cog in the wheel for The Vineyard is James Marocco, a computer specialist "who really runs our operation here," Mr. Hoffman said. Mr.

Marocco tracks every item that sells or doesn't sell, and this information is used for inventory control.

Store hours are 6 a.m. to 9 p.m. six days a week for food, and 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. for beer and wine. Sunday hours are 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. for food, and noon to 6 p.m. for beer and wine.

There is no seating area inside the store, but there are about a dozen seats outside in front of the store.

History

Butler's opened in 1970 or 1971 and had three previous owners before the Webers bought it in 1975. Mr. Hoffman opened Andover Liquors in 1976, and last year entered into an agreement in which Mr. Grange and Mr. Daly would take over ownership of the store over a 10-year period. The new store will also be part of that takeover, with the Webers as partners with Mr. Grange and Mr. Daly. Mr. Hoffman will gradually turn over his share of the stock to the other four partners.

The group hopes to open at least one other store like The Vineyard in the suburban Boston area, and possibly additional stores in other states in the future.

"This is a prototype of what we'd like to be a larger operation," Mr. Hoffman said.

And one last thing.

"You've got to put in that I found my job through the Townsmen," Mr. Grange said.

A friend, Marilyn

Sanderson, saw the classified ad in the Townsmen and pointed it out to him. He thinks that is especially important now that he is an owner of the business.

Special Town Meeting in October will address trash, other issues

things involve tweaking the zoning bylaws," said Michael Miller, planning board chairman. "There's not a lot of time to try to do anything major."

Mr. Miller said the articles will look to provide more land between the new large houses being built, and will set more standards about the type of land that is suitable to hold a home. Both Mr. Miller and Mr. Finegold said existing subdivisions will probably be grandfathered, or protected, from such bylaw adjustments.

Related to this growth issue, articles seeking money to purchase open space for conservation land will also appear on the warrant.

And an article addressing an assistant-living zoning bylaw will be on the warrant. This need was created by the efforts of Marriott International Inc. to build a 115-unit assisted-living facility at the corner of High and Haverhill streets. Marriott proposed a bylaw change last spring, and the town asked them to withdraw its proposal with the understanding the town would work with them on an article for a Town Meeting this fall.

"The planning board is concerned for elderly housing throughout the town and not just this particular project," said Mr. Miller. "So we've been working since then toward addressing assisted-living and congregate care, which are different types of development for elderly housing."

One area of contention between the planners and Marriott has been what percentage of the housing will be affordable to seniors living, for instance, on a fixed income.

"We want a project to be viable but we want seniors who are on a low income to be able to live there," said Mr. Miller. "There's been some resistance, and to give (Marriott) the benefit of the doubt, they've come a long way from the beginning."

"We're not going to kill the project (but we want) at least some percentage to remain affordable for people that have lived here all their life and would like to stay here."

U.S. West takes town's cable license

By Neil Fater

For the second time this year, Andover officials transferred the town's cable TV license to a different company.

Selectmen Monday night unanimously approved the transfer of Andover's cable license from Continental Cablevision Inc. to U.S. West Inc. The move had been expected since before June, when the town transferred control from TCI Cablevision of Andover to Continental Cablevision.

Jack Dempsey, chairman of the Cable Advisory Committee, recommended approval of both transfers.

Mr. Dempsey said he expects U.S. West to officially assume control by the beginning of 1997.

Although the current cable contract doesn't expire until June, 1997, Andover has been negotiating a new contract with the different cable companies for months.

"There will be absolutely no negative effect for the town of Andover but there could be positive effect," Mr. Dempsey said of the most recent transfer Tuesday. "I think the contract negotiations are going along fine."

Mr. Dempsey said the transfer to U.S. West should speed along a plan that will allow individual cable subscribers to sign up for a separate Internet package through their cable company. During public hearings this year, some Andover residents labeled this as something Andover should shoot for during its negotiations.

"Also, the schools will be able to get on the Internet service," said Mr. Dempsey. "That will be coming along in the very near future."

We haven't been here long, but Holy Family Hospital and Lawrence General Hospital are making all of us at Fallon Senior Plan feel more than welcome. Already 12 doctors – your doctors – have joined our participating network of physicians. And more are joining every day.

What does this mean for you? It means you can now get more than Medicare – including full hospitalization coverage, additional prevention and wellness benefits and more – and still keep your own doctor. As a Fallon Senior Plan member, you can take advantage of all this, and actually save money in the process.

Fallon Senior Plan has been keeping people healthy for more than 15 years – longer than any other Medicare HMO in Massachusetts. And now we're bringing that same level of commitment here to Lawrence and Methuen. If you'd like to know more, give us a call. We'd be happy to set up an appointment with a Fallon Senior Plan Representative.

Join us for a free lunch at Bishop's Restaurant in Lawrence at 12 noon on August 14, August 21 or September 4.

If you are eligible for Part B only, you must pay an additional premium. Care must be provided or arranged by network providers. You may choose your personal physician from among the doctors of internal medicine and family practice listed here. The other physicians are specialists who may be used on referral from your personal physician. Small copayments may be required for some services. © 1996 Fallon Senior Plan

The Department of Community Services held an ice cream party last Friday at Shawsheen School for its summer campers of Camp Shaw-knee (4- to 6-year-olds) and Camp Shee-hee (3- to 4-year-olds). The six-week program ended with the Aug. 16th party.

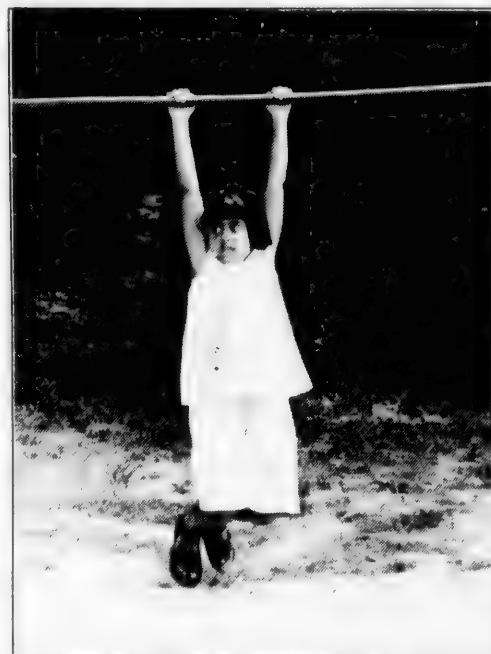

Benjamin Shook, 6, of Andover tastes his creation - vanilla ice cream topped with chocolate syrup.

Camp co-director Lyn Fitzgibbons, Jen Aylward and Ellen Buckley serve up dessert to Camp Shaw-knee kids.

Joseph and Alexander Malcolm of Andover, ages 2 and 5, postpone their sundaes until they've had a quick spin.

Lauren Liebman, 6, of North Reading came to the ice cream party with her cousin, Allie Bruce of Andover.

The series, free and open to the public, will include timely topics with something of interest for every parent of children in grades K-12, organizers said. A brochure of all parenting-enrichment programs will be mailed to every parent in Andover in early September.

The speaker series will begin Thursday, Oct. 24, with Dr. Tom Cottle, clinical psychologist, author, lecturer and television personality, speaking on "What-ever Happened to Standards, Values and Courtesy?"

Outdoor Classroom: A study of the forest

about in class earlier in the year, but in the forest, the children experienced them. These were no longer concepts; now they really understood."

Third-grade teachers - Ms. Eckoff, Lorraine Errico, Melissa Nussbaum, Mary Popovich, and Melissa Rakvica - had been preparing this program since September. The children demonstrate its success as they enthusiastically recount the experience. "I learned how to read a tree. You measure the last stem of the leaf and compare that with the growth from other years," explained Caitlin Carpentier.

Katie White learned "about the forest layers: the canopy, the understory, the herb layer, and lots of others." And Grant Brewer improved his tent-pitching time. "At first, we did it in 21 minutes, but our best time was four minutes." These made up a new set of skills that were sure to enhance South students' summers.

Your Dental HEALTH

by Richard D. Hopgood, D.M.D.

GOLD INLAYS

Once the decay in a small-to-medium sized cavity is removed from the chewing surface of a tooth, silver amalgam (a mixture of mercury, silver, tin, copper, and zinc) is usually the material of choice to fill the hole left by the drill. For larger cavities, however, the removal of the decay may not leave enough tooth structure to support a filling. If so, a filling made outside the tooth (known as an inlay) may be necessary. Most inlays are fabricated of gold in a process that begins with the dentist making a wax impression of the cavity. After a temporary filling is set in place, the wax impression is sent to a dental laboratory, where a gold casting is fabricated. This is then sent back to the dentist, who removes the temporary filling and puts the gold inlay in place. Once the necessary adjustments are made to ensure a perfect fit, the gold inlay is cemented into place, the bite tested with articulating paper, and the surface polished.

Even with inlays and the many other advances in dental technology today, the best opportunity to retain your teeth for a lifetime and the best insurance for a healthy oral profile is sticking to a routine of brushing, flossing, and professional care. If you can't remember the last time you visited the dentist, it's probably time you called us for an appointment. We offer complete, gentle dental services at 296 Lowell Street, Rt 133, with easy access off Rt 93. PH: 475-2431.

P.S. An onlay is also a filling made outside the tooth, but differs from an inlay in that it extends over the edges of the repaired tooth to protect the tooth's walls.

FINANCIAL STRATEGIES

by Ronald R. Hill, CLU, ChFC

ARE YOU UNDERSAVING?

Despite the fact that many companies are offering their employees either defined-benefit pensions or 401(k)s, Americans seem to be in no hurry to save for their retirements. According to the Department of Labor, the U.S. savings rate up to this point in the decade is a mere 2 percent. An equally alarming statistic is found in the fact that some 20 percent of Americans have no retirement savings at all. Those most guilty of undersaving are workers in small companies. Only 24 percent of Americans who work for firms with fewer than 100 employees are covered by pensions. With the cost of living rising steadily and with people living longer, some serious thought must be given to saving for post-work years. The average American will spend 18 years in retirement. Those who have an employer-provided pension plan should participate fully in it. Those who do not should take immediate steps to set up their own savings programs. Only by vigorously putting away as much money as possible over as long a period as possible will most people have a good chance of saving as much as they can for retirement. And the appropriate choice of investments certainly helps, too. Please call us today for more information.

Although many people feel as though saving for retirement is a good idea, today's budgets sometimes appear to have just enough for expenses never mind the saving part. That's when a trained financial analyst can be the most valuable. At BAYSTATE FINANCIAL SERVICES, 10 Essex Street, Andover, our financial advisors are fully trained to help you evaluate your present circumstances, and find ways to make your budget fit your lifestyle and your needs at the same time. For more information about our services, or to schedule an appointment, please call us today at 475-9212. Or call our Boston office, 100 N. Washington Street, at (617) 523-4500. Office hours are by appointment, and initial consultations are free of charge.

HINT: Financial experts estimate that the average person will need 70%-80% of his or her working income in retirement.

ALL THE LITTLE THINGS

Regardless of what reality awaits us beyond this one, it is sure not to match the unique qualities that we enjoy about our present lives. Life affords us unique opportunities to enjoy the world and our places in it. Basil W. Maturin expressed this very idea when he wrote: "After all, it's the daily round of life with all the little things that make it up from morning to evening and the intimate companionship that is woven more and more closely year by year - it's this that is broken in upon and whatever else we look forward to in the other world, it will not be this - and you must sometimes wonder if Heaven itself can make up for the joy of life, with all its disappointments and troubles, in this dear old earth."

As funeral directors, our calling imposes upon us special responsibilities to those we serve and to the public at large. An important obligation is to provide information so that everyone can make knowledgeable decisions about funerals and funeral directors. Understanding by Mark F. DeLorenzo, D.C.

A STUDIED RESPONSE

Challenges to claims of chiropractic's effectiveness have led to 54 published studies on spinal manipulation over the past 20 years, and more are on the way. No other back pain treatment has been subjected to such examination. And, the ability of chiropractic to withstand such scrutiny has led to its inclusion into the mainstream of healthcare in this country. Taken together, the conclusions carried from these 54 trials provides overwhelming evidence of chiropractic manipulation as an effective treatment for back pain. This evidence for the value of manipulation is strongest for acute and sub-acute back pain. More than 30 random, controlled trials have consistently demonstrated a beneficial effect on limiting the duration and severity of low back pain. And, although evidence of the effectiveness of manipulation for treating chronic back pain is less powerful, most studies suggest a positive effect.

At DeLORENZO CHIROPRACTIC GROUP, we offer the best possible chiropractic health care available. Whether you suffer from back pain or chronic headaches, you can be assured that we are here to help you. We're located at 15 Central Street, where our treatment rooms as well as our x-ray facilities have been equipped with the latest in technology. Our staff is here to serve, teach, and provide you with the care you deserve. Call 475-5042 to schedule an appointment.

P.S. The studies noted above evaluate manipulation according to a broad variety of criteria, including range of motion, cost-effectiveness, lost work time, patient satisfaction, and pain relief.

Architects look at redesign for tennis courts

By Neil Fater

The racket concerning the poorly-designed new tennis courts at Andover High School is expected to continue tonight, Thursday, when architects present their revised plan at the School Building Committee meeting.

Joe Sweeney, a long-time coach and player in various town organizations, expects to again present his case for a more dramatic overall of the design. Mr. Sweeney, of Cuba Street, has already appeared before both the building committee and the Board of Selectmen about this matter.

"The best thing I can say about (the new courts) is it's a beautiful example of extremely poor planning," Mr. Sweeney told selectmen Monday.

The building committee is well aware of the problems with the courts; even member Susan Jenkins has called them "useless" because they are placed baseline to baseline. This creates a situation where balls regularly fly into other courts, and players chasing balls on back-to-back courts are more likely to run into each other.

Balls regularly fly into other courts, and players chasing balls on back-to-back courts are more likely to run into each other.

The architects have suggested that they could move the two northern courts further north and the two southern courts further south to create more space between the courts. They would then put up a fence between the two pairs of courts.

Mr. Sweeney said if this is done, they should also put up a fence between the basketball and tennis courts to prevent injury to basketball players who may accidentally twist an ankle on a run-away tennis ball.

But Mr. Sweeney's real hope is that architects will move the basketball courts to the far southwest corner of the playing surface and create a line of five tennis courts across the northern edge of the area.

This will allow for one extra tennis court, although the basketball players will have less room on the sidelines. But Mr. Sweeney said there is currently about 36 feet of space on each side of the basketball courts, considerably more than basketball courts usually have.

"I think the bias was toward basketball," said Buzz Stapczynski, town manager, referring to the design a recent building committee meeting, "given the fact that there are seven tennis courts across the way."

Mr. Sweeney was also disappointed that mulch is placed around the courts on the inside of the fence.

"What happens is all the balls get filthy dirty. I teach classes there, so I know," he said. "It's ridiculous. It dirties the balls up and it goes on the court."

"There's nothing I can do about that but I think it's a poor job," said Mr. Sweeney.

Mr. Sweeney asked the selectmen Monday if they were the ones who had appointed the building committee and he was told the town manager made those appointments.

"Well, I suggest you have a serious talk with them," Mr. Sweeney said to Mr. Stapczynski.

See how Leslie Frost's garden grows and grows

By Neil Fater

In a battle of woman against nature, landscape designer Leslie Frost seems to have established a beautiful, if tenuous, truce.

Yet, although she has dealt admirably with the destructive power of lightning and can work wonders with the materials and plant life she sculpts on her Lowell Street property, all is not as peaceful as it appears.

Behind the facade of an area influenced by the formal gardens of Europe, lurks a guerrilla warfare between Ms. Frost and the furry creatures that have infiltrated her property. Ms. Frost admits to sympathizing with Bill Murray's Caddyshack character because of Carl's obsession with killing the varmints.

"I am always fighting the groundhogs, so I have wonderful groundhog stories," she says. "Living with the wildlife here has been the bane of my existence. I've tried to develop the garden so it's plant material that they don't like rather than (think it is) gourmet food."

'I believe that this is an extension of your indoor living. These are outdoor rooms.'

But one of Ms. Frost's major problems is that the groundhogs seem to like everything about her lawn and gardens. They can't be alone.

Even if one's idea of a precious garden is the old home of the Boston Celtics, a person is bound to be impressed by the landscape of Ms. Frost's lawn and gardens. It's not hard to believe the former clinical pathologist has designed landscapes for the past 15 years, and that she is now a master judge at such events as the Boston Flower Show.

Ms. Frost has thousands of different plants and flowers on her property as well as different urns and items of folk art. She has several different sculpted eagles on her lawn and each has a name.

"I'm very much involved with antiques," she says. "I don't have enough room in the house for the eagles so they have to go outside."

The plants, flowers and shrubs in an area "have to be worked into the landscape. They can't be too outstanding, at least for me," says Ms. Frost. "You need color and textural differences (between plants), and yet sameness too. It's a balance."

Living rooms

The different areas of Ms. Frost's property flow seamlessly into one another, and Ms. Frost says she considers them to be additions to her home.

"I believe that this is an extension of your indoor living. These are outdoor rooms," she says passing a formal area behind her home complete with antique pillars, spiraling dwarf Alberta spruce bushes and a 60-year-old wrought iron table-and-chair set.

"There are many areas, many rooms that each function for a reason," she says later.

While these different areas may be rooms, they are true living rooms, rather than that sacred dining room your mother would never let you play in as a kid.

Ms. Frost says she likes to use her property. Her daughter was married on the rear side-lawn and her son recently had his engagement party there.

But one of Ms. Frost's newest and most breathtaking areas is in the far back of her property. Her husband, Norman, had the idea a few years ago to plant an apple orchard and so the Frost's put in three rows of three trees.

"He was going to be the country gentleman. We put in nine apple trees. Our yield was maybe four apples," says Ms.

Frost, laughing at the memory.

Since then, the middle row of trees has been replaced by granite steps with rose- and day lily bookends.

After one passes through a white gateway topped by urns, the granite steps lead the eye downhill to a man-made pond stocked with large goldfish that hide under the lily pads during warm weather. The Frosts can control the pond's water level and the pond is complete with a working waterfall engineered by Mr. Frost. Two hand-carved granite cranes from China surround an Indonesian bench originally made for the turn-of-the-century Dutch market. The bench rests just in front of a wetland drowning in a sea of purple loosestrife.

Ms. Frost said beavers created a five-acre lake a few years ago that encroached on her property and she attained permission from the state and town government to create the wildlife containment pond. Similarly, when lightning took out a large, old tree on her side lawn she altered the landscaping there.

Despite these types of problems with both animals and forces of nature, Ms. Frost still approaches her work with a sense of humor.

"The garden is always changing and I'm always out there helping it," she says. "I think you have to learn to live with your environment, laugh about it and have fun with it."

Ms. Frost can even laugh about some of her battles with her unwanted ground guests.

"Groundhogs, raccoons," she says with surprising mirth. "They are the bane of my existence. Bugs I can live with. They can eat some leaves."

There is one groundhog story, in particular, that stands out in her mind. It was Mother's Day a number of years ago and her husband asked her what she wanted for a present. What she wanted was for him to get rid of those darn groundhogs.

"I, as a landscape designer, was able to purchase a super bomb," she says.

So her husband threw the bomb down a hole and after a while some smoke poured out. And then there was some more smoke, and some more.

"The next thing I knew it had erupted in flame," she says. "They had to take apart that whole compost section."

The groundhogs had created a labyrinthian series of tunnels under her property and the bomb had set the underground area afire. Ms. Frost says it took eight fire fighters six hours to squelch the subterranean sizzle.

"They had to take apart that whole hillside. It was devastating. So I haven't done that again," she says. "And at the end of it, (there was) not one roasted groundhog. Not only that but the fire department confiscated my one other super bomb. My kids call it Caddyshack around here."

Sitting back by the goldfish pond, others might call it heaven.

Amy Joyall and Candy Dann, ABC board members, help out Saturday. Ms. Dann was host parent to last year's senior Caridad Tapia, who is attending Colgate University this fall. Ms. Dann is updating the ABC database.

Tom Sharkey, host parent to ABC student Nolia Hill, a senior at Andover High School, wields a paint brush during the spruce up Saturday.

Resident hopes to clean up with workout video

By Neil Fater

Forget all those plastic contraptions infomercials say will tone your stomach, buttocks and thighs. Andover resident Carolyn Abagis claims you can use your rake, vacuum cleaner and lawn mower.

Ms. Abagis, of Chandler Road, has created a workout video combining house and yard work with exercise maneuvers.

But in her house-work workout you don't have to bench press your snow blower to get the job done — although that might help, too.

Instead, Ms. Abagis suggests minor changes in the way people normally approach their daily chores. While raking leaves or sweeping dirt, Ms. Abagis recommends twisting the body at the waist. She suggests doing leg lunges while mowing grass around trees and vacuuming carpets.

"It's just little adjustments. Getting into it, using resistance," she says. "The kids are laughing at me but, you know, when I get done I feel great."

"These are exercises and things you normally do every day. You're going to wipe a counter. You're going to hang up clothes. I tried to stay with exercises that are for the problem areas for most people."

A former Miss Massachusetts in the 1977 Miss USA/Miss Universe pageant, Ms. Abagis says she came up with the idea for the video more than a year ago.

She and husband, John, have three children: Bobby, 8, Laurel, 5, and 21-month-old "wrecking ball," George. Ms. Abagis says she gained more than 50 pounds when she had George and couldn't seem to shake the extra baggage after she gave birth.

"My husband prodded me, 'Just get into the housework,' and I got mad and I did," she said. "I'm back to my pre-pregnancy weight, but I'm even firmer than I was before."

Ms. Abagis wrote and directed herself in the video, which was captured by cameraman Fred Crispo, of Tilton Lane. If people in the Merrimack Valley like the video, Ms. Abagis hopes it will garner more widespread notice and appeal.

The editing is a bit rough at times, but the current version will only be used to test the local market.

"It has glitches in it and all. This is not Hollywood, but I like it because it gives a nice homey feel," she says.

Ms. Abagis has a professional air about her on film.

"What does work around your home, yard and gym have in common? Exercise," she says to start the "Home and Yard Exercise Program" video.

Because her baby-sitter didn't show up the day of the taping and her husband was at work, Ms. Abagis says she had to edit out comments and fights among her children.

There is also an unexpected presence in the film. Although his name would suggest he does not belong in a workout video, Sluggo, the Abagis' 13-year-old dog, lounges in the background of a scene where Ms. Abagis explains her lawn-mowing technique.

Ms. Abagis says one of the best things about her program is it gives people more time to spend with their families — and, presumably, with their lazy dogs. Instead of traveling to and from a health club and hiring someone to look after the kids, a father or mother can stay home and do the exercises as part of the daily chores, she says.

The video costs $12.95 and can be obtained by sending a check to Ms. Abagis at Carolyn's Home and Yard Exercise Program, Box 2063, Andover.

Carolyn Abagis, above, hoists her Hoover for the camera, but this clean-and-jerk exercise is not part of her video. Below, Ms. Abagis uses resistance as a workout while cleaning a counter.

Carolyn Abagis does a leg lunge while mowing the lawn. Similar lunges can be used while vacuuming, but using one arm and switching arms is important.

South School grounds' new look disappointing

By Neil Fater

Nearly one year after Andover assumed control of a newly renovated South Elementary School, town officials are disappointed with the way the grounds in front of the school look.

Weeds have overtaken the islands around the parking lots and there are also problems with the concrete sidewalks, said Jim Heiberg, architect.

At the School Committee meeting Tuesday, Susan Dalton, committee member, said she had received a call from someone concerned about the school grounds' appearance.

"I was at the school today and it struck me the same way," Dick Neal, superintendent, said Tuesday. "The landscaping around that building is just not what you'd expect from having dug up the whole site. The landscaping, it either didn't grow properly or it wasn't properly seeded or something but it certainly doesn't look good around that building."

"It's not what it should be," Mr. Neal said.

In addition Mr. Heiberg told the School Building Committee recently that workers still need to complete other small items in the school such as putting up signs, completing some work under windows, and repairing cracked or bulging tile.

Despite the and the small, lingering problems at South however, Andover has been very happy with the work done at Sanborn Elementary.

In reference to the $4 million Sanborn project, Jim Marsh, building committee chairman recently made the comment, "The smallest job, the most attentive contractor."

School population numbers, budget look good

By Neil Fater

The School Committee received a double dose of good news Tuesday as it held its last meeting before Andover's teachers return to school for the coming year.

Committee members learned student-teacher ratios will be within their policy guidelines, and also that they can buy back some of the budget items they cut because of an April Town Meeting budget vote.

School leaders were concerned about the student-teacher ratio this summer because the budget only had enough money for two contingency teachers.

"In looking at the way things are moving it seems like we're in pretty good shape at all grade levels across the system," said Dick Neal, superintendent. "I don't believe that we have any that are approaching the (student-teacher ratio) boundaries."

Mr. Neal also presented the committee with a list of items it could add back to the 1996-1997 school year budget because there was $195,000 left over from the previous year's budget. The committee approved $152,000 to pay for two new teachers, the equivalent of 1.8 full-time technology assistants, and stipends for teachers involved with student activities and technology integration.

Give Brits a proper welcome

The year-long 350th anniversary celebration of the town's founding will kick off its final season with the arrival of at least 137 guests from Andover, England, next week for the Labor Day weekend soccer tournament and accompanying events. We are looking forward to giving the Brits a big welcome and in taking part in at least some of the activities, and we encourage others to do the same.

A complete list of the week's events begins on page 41.

The events start off with a welcoming party for the Brits Wednesday evening in Doherty Middle School auditorium, and wind down Tuesday, Sept. 3, with a series of golf outings and a farewell banquet at Andover Country Club.

In between there is a scheduled visit to Canobie Lake Park; a soccer clinic with the Revolution, New England's professional soccer team; and the soccer tournament, which kicks off Saturday, Aug. 31, and runs through Monday, Labor Day.

Boys and mens teams from Andover, England, will be going head-to-head (Yes, pun intended) with teams from Andover, Mass., on various fields in town. [A complete chart of game locations and times is on page 41.]

The golf outings scheduled for Tuesday are for both youths and adults, as is the send-off banquet for the British at Andover Country Club that evening.

Next weekend is not the end of the 350th celebration. The parade will follow two weeks later [see page 43], and other events are planned through the fall and into December.

But next weekend will be the beginning of the end, and if you've been on the sidelines of the celebration so far, now is the time to get out and enjoy some of the planned activities. Don't miss out.

They want to know, 'Will I be a cool RA?'

By Eric Danis

"So, are you going to be a cool R.A.?"

This is the query I am confronted with every time I inform one of my college-age peers that I will be a residential advisor at Brandeis University this year.

What my peers really want to know is: Have I accepted the fact that all college students will inevitably consume alcohol, and they cannot and will not be deterred from this pursuit?

This question comes at a pivotal time, as alcohol has recently played a role in several deaths that have shaken the Merrimack Valley. In an incident illustrating that drinking can kill in ways unrelated to drinking and driving, Kyle Wentworth of North Andover died when a train hit him after an alleged drinking bout. In Andover, Peter Afarian was killed in what appears to be a drinking-and-driving accident. These boys didn't have to die, yet people still aren't heeding the warning involving alcohol: The tragedies could have been avoided.

In the wake of these accidents, one teen mother said to my mother, "What could the parents of those boys (involved in the Andover accident) have done? Most teens in Andover drink a lot."

This attitude sickens me, as this mother is basically saying that all parents can do is sit by helplessly as their teen-agers consume a drug that is often linked to accidents, rapes and deaths.

I, along with 2,000 other people, recently went to the wake of a person I considered a friend. In my memories, Peter Afarian always has a big smile across his face, and many people obviously agree since Pete was voted "fun to be around" in our high school yearbook. As I waited in line, thinking about what kind of a person the world would be missing out on, I overheard an adult talking to his friend. The man turned to his friend and said, "We've all been in the position (of drinking and driving) that those kids were. They were just the unlucky ones."

This man chooses to believe that everyone drinks and drives and only the "unlucky" ones get in accidents. He acts as if people can't choose not to drink and drive or choose not get in a car with someone who is going to drink and drive.

Unfortunately, teen-agers also act as if they have no choice but to drink. In high school, I sat by and observed as students who didn't drink as freshman and sophomores began consuming alcohol as upper-classmen simply to "fit in." These students behaved as if they had no free choice in the matter, as if they were puppets being pulled towards their destiny.

Anyone who dared to state the opinion that drinking was foolish got branded a nerd or a loser. After all, it seemed as if everyone else was drinking, and who wants to be the only one not doing something? Even more disheartening was seeing some of my friends who had abstained from alcohol in high school return from college as heavy drinkers. They believed that without alcohol they would have no social life; they thought (and still think) everyone in college must drink.

The flawed belief that teen-agers don't have a choice regarding alcohol is pervading our community. Parents, I don't have all the answers, but I do know that standing by and doing

Returning grad not impressed by hat ban

Editor, Townsmen:

What an odd experience it was to return to the town of Andover and see the changes that have taken place with the construction on the high school. I said to myself, "It looks like a totally different place." However, after reading the Aug. 8 issue of the Townsmen, I came to the conclusion that they can tear down the school and rebuild another one, but as long as the same mentality which existed when I went there remains, not a thing will have really changed.

In recent years, the Andover High School has tackled such intense issues as the banning of midriff-displaying attire, certain t-shirts, and gum-chewing. Way to go! I'm so proud that we have tackled the issues that most matter to the youth of this town. Now, the issue on the table is the wearing of baseball caps, another issue which I have long thought needed addressing. If there's one thing that has caused the downfall of the AHS community, it's those darn baseball caps.

Many of my memories of AHS include the characteristic baseball caps of my fellow classmates. I never had a problem seeing their faces as Ellen Parker appears to, because the hat was part of their entire personality. She also stated that "it has become sort of a health and safety issue. Some of the hats are pretty grungy looking." Well, Ms. Parker, if you think that hats are grungy, you should see some of the hair underneath - you may be asking some people to put their hats back on!

It may also be noted that there was no safety issue specifically identified in the entire article. I'd really like to hear that one. Baseball caps are part of an American tradition, one that AHS has no reason to end. I truly am disappointed because I know that there are so many other important issues that need to be dealt with immediately, but time is wasted on the superficial and unimportant.

In my four years at Andover High, I became aware of so many more serious life-altering issues facing our town's nothing does not work. Also, telling teen-agers it is okay to drink in one situation and not another is sending a mixed message. It is fine to tell sober teen-agers not to drink and drive, but most teens think they can drive after "a few" because alcohol impairs their judgment.

He will be a cool RA

Looking in the casket at the wake of a friend, all I could wonder is how many more wakes I would have to attend because of alcohol. Teen-agers - how many more acquaintances, siblings and friends have to die before we realize we can choose not to drink?

I'm not writing this column because

Standing ovation for summer ACT

Editor, Townsmen:

It was definitely worth the trip to the South Lawrence East School last weekend to experience the poignant, energetic and enthusiastic production of Working, a musical from the late '70's based on a Studs Terkel book, produced by the Andover Theatre Company.

The youthful cast, comprised of Andover and (other local) high school and college students, was able to express and bring to the audience a sense of feeling and powerful emotion about a very important part of our lives - what we each do for work. There was a message there for the laborer, the housewife, the fireman, the bank teller, the office worker - even the corporate executive.

Director Dana Bissett and choreographer Dennis Lorne were superb in their abilities to bring a strong sense of character to each performer and to provide an expressive and exuberant presence on stage for every vocal and dance scene.

This youthful troupe was able to tap into feelings and emotions well beyond their years to keep the audiences cheering and pounding the floor for more.

While the performers were able to demonstrate the darker, harder side of work, they were equally up to the task of celebrating the indomitable human spirit.

Congratulations to the Andover Theatre Company for a job well done.

More acclaim for ACT

Editor, Townsmen:

This past weekend, the Andover Community Theatre presented one of the most exciting and poignant pro-youth that it was startling. My class alone experienced suicide, drug and alcohol abuse, sexual harassment, rape, teen pregnancy, depression, divorce, academic and peer pressure. I

I want to impose my lifestyle on anyone else. I'm not trying to preach, and I'm certainly not trying to trivialize anyone's death. What I am trying to do is tell teen-agers that they can choose not to drink.

Oh, and in case you were wondering, I will be a cool R.A. I'm going to enforce the school's alcohol policy while informing first-year students that they have a choice.

Eric Danis is a 1995 graduate of Andover High School. He completed a summer internship at the Townsmen last week, and begins his sophomore year at Brandeis University this fall.

ductions in its history. It was my pleasure to see a highly motivated Friday night production of Working, based on a book by Studs Terkel with music by several people including Stephen Schwartz and James Taylor. The production took place at South Lawrence East School.

Director Dana Bissett used a combination of talented students from the area who were at least in 11th grade. I hesitate to mention one without the others because the production was filled with many outstanding performances.

However, the most beautifully inspired performance of the evening was given when TJ Witham (father) led a trio which included David Bissett (son) and Todd Buonopane (grandfather). The piece was entitled "Fathers and Sons," and believe me when I tell you that there was not a dry eye in the house.

The sparse staging was very well done, including slides and movable furniture, and a clock with time "marching on." The cast began in all-white costumes, but quickly changed into colorful costumes befitting their professions.

The ensemble was incredibly together, due to the creative talents of the choreographer, Dennis Lorne. As solos alternated with group numbers, the timing was magnificent and the movements were very appropriate to the subject matter and mood. The musical accompaniment was highly stylized and supportive. The "pit" was marvelous. Music director Sandi Nason used the voices beautifully.

What a cast!

would suggest that not one of those issues had anything to do with the wearing of a baseball cap.

To the school system, I urge you to take a good, hard look at yourselves and the structure of the administration. If the only issue you can come up with is a dress code, you're certainly not looking hard enough and you're taking the easy way out.

Sen. John O'Brien wraps up legislative session

Bills passed address concerns in health care, public safety and business

As the Legislature wrapped-up the legislative year for 1996, health care, public safety and tax breaks seemed to top the agenda. State Sen. John O'Brien, D-Andover, reports that several of these important initiatives are on their way to the Governor's desk.

The Legislature passed, and overrode the governor's veto of, a bill that provides health care to uninsured children and expands prescription assistance to low-income elders. This legislation contains a provision to increase the cigarette tax, which would aid in the funding of these programs. The non-group insurance bill, which enables more individuals to access competitive rates for health care coverage, regardless of preexisting conditions, also passed.

"Preventative medicine is the key to keeping the citizens of Massachusetts healthy. By providing access to health care, we can ensure that people young and old are able to obtain the medical services they need," said Sen. O'Brien.

Other health-care bills which received Legislative approval include a tobacco disclosure bill which requires cigarette manufacturers to divulge the accurate nicotine levels and additives contained in their products.

Also accepted was legislation to establish a physician profile registry, which outlines the credentials of those in the medical field.

The House and Senate passed legislation to establish a sex offender registry and notification system requiring all sex offenders to register in person at their local police departments. The bill establishes a centralized computer registry of information, which is circulated among all law enforcement officials and is available to the public upon request.

Sen. O'Brien, an original author of this bill, said, "The sex offender registry will aid law enforcement in tracking the whereabouts of sex offenders and it will provide parents with the information needed to ensure the safety and well-being of their children."

Other public safety legislation includes bills that provide for the implementation of tougher juvenile-justice sentences and expanded penalties in the commitment of hate crimes.

In their efforts to create a more business friendly climate in Massachusetts, the Legislature passed a bill that provides for tax incentives for mutual fund companies doing business in the state.

"The mutual fund industry is a rapidly growing field. This legislation aims at keeping these companies in Massachusetts, resulting in expanded job opportunities for our residents," said Sen. O'Brien.

Legislation which will help financial services organizations take advantage of interstate banking opportunities was also passed.

Other initiatives acted upon by the Legislature include the final deficiency budget, which includes tax relief for every taxpayer in the state, and the rivers bill, which ensures that economic priorities are balanced with the environmental concerns associated with development along waterways.

"My goal, and I believe the goal of all my Senate colleagues, is to make Massachusetts a better place to live and work for everyone. Under the new leadership of Senate President Thomas Birmingham, the Senate has made great strides toward achieving that goal," Sen. O'Brien said.

Andover Pediatric Dental Center

In many dentist offices, it is difficult to get the children to stay. At the Andover Pediatric Dental Center, the challenge is getting them to leave.

Arthur A. Daniels, DDS, and his staff have made the office at 174 Lowell St. fun for children and comfortable for parents. Children have their own waiting room, complete with television and toys. Sesame Street is a featured program and children can continue watching their shows on the televisions in the examination room.

They can also play video games on the arcade-size Sega machine and receive stickers and balloons. If a young patient has no cavities, they get to ring an old ship's bell on the wall.

The office is located at 174 Lowell St. in a recently restored 200-year-old Colonial home. Mr. Daniels' residence is above the office. He has three college-age children, Matthew and Peter, graduates of Andover High School, and Amy, a graduate of Governor Dummer Academy.

Amid all the fun, Dr. Daniels and staff work to teach the children and their parents about dental hygiene at the office and during visits to schools. "Prevention through education is the name of the game," said Dr. Daniels. Flossie the Horse and Elizza Moo Little, stuffed animals with full sets of teeth, help to illustrate the latest techniques.

Dr. Daniels said he is working with parents of toddlers to prevent tooth decay caused by prolonged breast or bottle feeding. He said children who fall asleep with pools of milk in their mouths are susceptible to early tooth decay.

ble to early tooth decay.

Another advancement in children's dental care has been the use of sealants to protect the deep grooves and crevices on the chewing surfaces of back teeth to keep decay from developing. Dr. Daniels said he strives to prevent orthodontia work by keeping teeth on track through close monitoring.

Dr. Daniels has been in practice for more than 20 years with an office in Winchester. He was seeing so many children from the Andover area, he recently decided to open a second office here.

He has been at it long enough that he now is seeing the children of his former patients. "It's been great watching kids grow," he said.

John and Pat Barrell

Barrelling through town

By Don Staruk

John and Pat Barrell of Andover, England, visited Andover, Mass., last week as guests of Jo Comparato of 10 Fulton Road. The couple's son, Geoffrey, was an exchange student at Andover High School living with the Comparatos in 1976. The Barrells' last visit to Andover was in 1981.

The Barrells were in Andover from Aug. 10-16, the final week of a four-week trip to the States that included a family reunion in Colorado.

The reunion was in celebration of the 100th anniversary of Mr. Barrell's grandfather's first coming to America, to Colorado, and more than 50 family members attended.

While in Andover, the Barrells met with Buzz Stapczynski, town manager, and Randy Hanson, town clerk, to encourage development of more links between the two Andovers. Any formal link would be organized through our Board of Selectmen and their Borough Council. But Mr. Barrell is a member of Andover, England's, Town Twinning Association, similar to the sister-city program in this country, and he and his wife are also encouraging development of an informal link between the two towns, so "people of like interests can have a contact in England," and vice versa.

Anyone interested in helping organize links between the two Andovers should contact Mr. Stapczynski.

During their visit, the Barrells also went on a whale watch out of Newburyport that they termed "spectacular."

The Pops Committee is getting ready for Sept. 21 - See page 45.

Jim Doherty, chairman of the 350th Anniversary's Parade Committee, has announced that the Boston College "Screaming Eagles" Marching Band will take part in Andover's 350th parade Sunday, Sept. 15. Selectmen approved the closing of Main Street to traffic at their meeting Monday night. Mr. Doherty, a member of the BC class of 1937 (looking forward to his 60th reunion next year), wryly told the Townsman that Main Street still won't be wide enough for the band to spell out the school's initials in formation, as in the above photo at a Nov. 11, 1995 home game against Miami. The "Screaming Eagles" Marching Band consists of 217 members, including instrumentalists, a color guard, a dance team, and a team of student managers. The band performs annually at BC home football games and at selected parades in the greater Boston area. The band has experience in the 350th department, having performed in the Rehoboth (Mass.) parade in 1993.

SPORTS

Andover 18U takes 1st place in Middle-Essex Softball League

By Jenn Morris

The Andover 18 and under girls softball team has captured first place in the Middle-Essex Softball League with a record of 11 wins, 2 losses and 1 tie. This has been the first time in recent years that Andover has done so well. Most members of the team have played together for the last 3 or 4 years and all that hard work and dedication has paid off with a division championship.

During the last week of play, the Blue and Gold faced Danvers and Marblehead.

The game against Danvers was crucial because it was the only team that threatened Andover's first-place berth. The hometown team came through to win 8-4. Jill Cunningham started Andover off with a single and ended up scoring the first run by stealing bases and advancing on passed balls. Danvers came back with one to match Andover on some aggressive baserunning. In the third, Lisa Sawin chalked up another with a single and some aggressive baserunning too. In the fourth inning Andover blew it open when Kelly Roberge got hit by a pitch, Jen Mann drove a double to left and Julie Litzenberger belted a three-run homer to left center. Lynne Mazza continued by getting on base with a single to center and scored on a single by Andrea Buonaugurio. Andover was now up 6-1, but Danvers tried a comeback in the fourth, scoring two runs on passed balls, and in the fifth with one more run. The Blue and Gold fought back and got two more in the sixth for insurance. Megan Burke and Michelle Langone hit singles and then both scored on a sacrifice by Mann. That was enough to hold off Danvers. Mazza and Bridgett Fallon combined for eight strikeouts pitching for the win. Defensive standouts included Kaitlin Dargan, Michelle Carpentier, Lauren Roda and Andrea Campbell.

Marblehead proved to be a little more of a challenge than anticipated, starting off by scoring two right away to take a lead. Andover fought back to stay even, scoring two in the first when Litzenberger smacked a triple, which scored Mann. Then Dargan belted a triple to score Litzenberger. Andover added another in the third when Litzenberger hit a double, scoring Roberge from second. Marblehead broke the game open in the fifth scoring six runs with a combination of good hits and fielding errors from Andover's defense. Michelle Carpentier started off the fifth with a single followed by singles from Roberge and Mann and walks from Litzenberger and Dargan to combine for four runs. Marblehead went ahead in the sixth by scoring 3 runs and the Andover team had to play catch-up. The Blue and Gold held their opponent in the seventh and attempted to take the win but fell short. Litzenberger started off with a single and stole a base to get to second. Dargan grounded out to short but moved Julie to third. Campbell hit a high fly to left center which was caught for the second out but Litzenberger tagged up to score the tying run. That was as far as it went. The next batter grounded out to first.

The Andover team looks forward to next year when it will defend its first-place title. Team members also hope to compete in some ASA tournaments next summer to keep challenging themselves and to improve their softball skills.

September brings a full slate of Andover High School sports events

By Rick Harrison

The 1996 Andover High fall sports season officially opens tomorrow when the varsity football team reports for its first practice session.

Athletes on the eight other Golden Warrior teams will begin next Monday, Aug. 26.

Andover will once again field teams in football, men's and women's soccer, field hockey, women's volleyball, women's swimming, men's and women's cross country and golf.

The only new head coach is Ken Maglio, succeeding the retired

Dick Collins, who spent 37 years at the helm of the football team.

Maglio is hardly new to the AHS grid program, however, with almost three decades of service as a freshman and varsity assistant.

Returning head coaches are Dave Amundsen (men's soccer, 21st year), Dick Loschi (women's soccer, 12th year), Sandy Lunt (field hockey, 10th year), co-heads Art Iworsley and George Sullivan (women's volleyball, 9th year together), Marilyn Fitzgerald (women's swimming, 5th year), Leo Lafond (men's and women's varsity cross country (9th year) and Bob Lawson (golf, 29th year).

Both varsity soccer teams, men's cross country and golf are defending Merrimack Valley Conference champions.

The men's soccer team also advanced to the Eastern Mass. Division 1 North Tournament final last fall before being ousted by Somerville.

Men's soccer coach Amundsen is approaching a personal milestone, needing only seven more wins to reach 250. He enters with a 243-70-55 career record.

Andover women's teams will enjoy an expanded league schedule this fall with the addition of two new schools, Notre Dame Academy of Tyngsboro and Central Catholic (co-ed for first time).

Season Openers

The women's swim team will be first in action on Friday, Sept. 6 at the annual Haverhill Relay Carnival. The first dual meet is Sept. 13 at Lawrence.

The field hockey squad opens with a non-league regular-season game on Monday, Sept. 9, at Concord-Carlisle.

The women's volleyball and soccer teams both open on Tuesday, Sept. 10, the former at Lowell and the latter at Billerica.

Men's soccer begins on Wednesday, Sept. 11, at Tewksbury, and the same afternoon the women's cross country team competes at Notre Dame Academy.

The men's cross country squad opens Thursday, Sept. 19, at Chelmsford.

The football team has an extra week to prepare, drawing its bye during the first weekend of play.

The only new team on the football schedule, the Keene, N.H. High Blackbirds, come to town to kick off the campaign at Lovely Field on Friday night, Sept. 20, at 7.

Non-league Keene replaces Leominster on the slate.

The quartet will perform American jazz standards by composers such as Jerome Kern and George Gershwin, Latin jazz, bebop and original compositions by flutist Mike Finegold, a professor in the Department of Creative Arts at Northern Essex.

The quartet also includes Alain Mallet on piano, John Lockwood on bass and Bob Gullotti on drums.

Mr. Finegold has recorded jazz for the Master's Musicians Collective. He has been a member of the Winiker Swing Orchestra for many years and studied jazz composition with Gunther Schuller and George Russell.

DCS tennis tournament results

In what organizers hope will be an annual tennis event, the Department of Community Services held a tennis tournament Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 17 and 18, at the Andover High School courts.

They had hoped to run men's and women's singles, doubles and mixed doubles in novice, intermediate and advanced divisions, but due to limited participation, all levels of play were combined into men's and women's divisions.

The women's doubles, expected to be heavily contested, was dropped as only one team entered.

Next year the event will be held in early September, with more publicity planned.

The results of the finals in all events were:

Women's singles: Liz Jurek defeated Barbara Horvath, a visitor from Austria, 6-4, 6-1.

Men's singles: Jeff Rucker defeated Joe Sweeney 6-1, 6-2.

Men's doubles: Roger Young and Paul DeMont defeated Scott Callanan and Jay Levine 6-3, 6-4.

Frank Sweeney and Lorena Fiori defeated Joe Sweeney and Liz Jurek 1-6, 6-4, 7-5.

Andover 12U Gold continues winning

The Andover Gold girls' softball team defeated Amesbury 22-9 in Middle-Essex softball league action.

Lindsey Rosen, Jackie Collins, Bristol Konjoian, Ashley Daley, Erica Weeks, Kim MacElhaney and Ashley Faulk each collected two hits. Caitlyn Hamer, Valerie Froburg and Samantha Hughes turned in solid defense performances while Lisa Famiglietti nearly beat out a routine infield ground ball.

Melanie Burnett reached base three times in three at-bats, in addition to turning in a stellar performance behind the plate. MacElhaney pitched a complete-game seven-hitter for the win.

Rosen reached base and scored four times, going 2-for-2. Weeks was 2-for-3 with a line-drive stand-up triple, pulled down the right-field line, and Konjoian was 2-for-3, including a double.

Pirates to host a free clinic and team tryouts

The Merrimack Valley Pirates will host a free clinic and team tryouts Tuesday, Sept. 3, and Thursday, Sept. 5, from 5:30-6:30 p.m. at Greater Lawrence Technical School pool, 57 River Road, for swimmers between the ages of 6 and 18.

Radon Diagnostic Services

Pictured above is Dick Rammacher with a portion of a radon remediation system in operation. The manometer, which is a simple, effective "system-on-indicator" shows that the system is operating properly. Dick Rammacher is both an EPA approved radon tester and mitigation contractor, permitting him to design and install cost-effective radon remediation systems that permanently reduce radon concentrations to safe levels.

Radon is a cancer-causing radioactive gas produced in the soil. It is of growing concern to area residents as it is responsible for thousands of lung cancer deaths per year, second only to smoking. One in three homes have levels that exceed EPA's recommended maximum exposure. Elevated levels of radon gas should prompt widespread testing and remediation of high radon homes.

High radon concentrations in any home can be permanently reduced to safe levels. This requires a competent and experienced mitigation contractor who can repair homes with guaranteed results. Dick Rammacher has successfully remediated over 400 homes with high radon levels in the area, more than half of those in the Andovers. Average radon reductions are greater than 90 percent. Most radon systems are inconspicuous, taking up minimal space out of sight and require little power.

The radon issue arises most commonly in real estate transactions. Many health conscious people, who are aware of the dangers, call in remediators on their own if, after testing, remediation is indicated.

Radon Diagnostic Services' continued growth, fueled by word-of-mouth referrals, has necessitated adding new employees to the staff who are skilled in the installation of remediation systems.

Dick Rammacher is available to answer any questions concerning radon, its detection and reduction, at no charge or obligation. For a free consultation, please call Dick Rammacher at Radon Diagnostic Services.

Andover American 10-year-old All Stars win Methuen Town Tournament, 7-6

The Andover American 10-year-old All Stars won the Methuen Town Tournament with a 7-6 victory over Lowell Centerville. Andover had a 3-0 lead in the first inning but Lowell struggled back with the score 7-4 going into the bottom of the sixth. Lowell had the bases loaded with no outs but Jason Edelstein, who pitched the entire game, held on for the win. Solid defense in the field was provided by Steve Renfro, Jon Deleo and Alex Foley. Ryan Nadelson was catcher for the first three innings, shortstop for the last three, and had two solid hits, gaining him the MVP award for the championship game.

The Andover American 10-year-old All Stars end a 29-game schedule this summer with a record of 23-6. Coach Larry Renfro got them to the championship game of the Tournament of Champions, and the finals of the loser's bracket in District 14.

Rock Run to benefit the MSPCA

More than 400 motorcycle riders will ride from Methuen to the Hard Rock Cafe in Boston Sunday, Aug. 25, in the fourth annual Boston Rock Run to benefit the MSPCA Shelter in Methuen.

The run is sponsored by 100.7/WZLX-FM. The Hard Rock Cafe will hold a post-run party and a benefit raffle of Hard Rock items and other merchandise.

Bikers will leave by 11 a.m. from the Days Inn in Methuen, just off Route 93 at Exit 47, and proceed down Route 93 South into Boston. (Rain date: Sep. 15) Estimated arrival at Hard Rock is between 11:45 and noon.

For more information, call the MSPCA Animal Shelter at (508) 687-7453.

Merrimack Junior Theatre to hold auditions

Merrimack Junior Theatre will hold auditions for students in grades 2 through 6 for its fall musical Tumbleweeds Sept. 5 and 6 at West School Elementary School from 6 to 9 p.m. Students will be asked to act out a short poem or monologue (one minute maximum) and sing a few bars from My Country 'Tis of Thee (America). Students should bring a non-returnable photo of themselves.

According to MJT president Corinne Gediman, "Tumbleweeds is a cheerfully irreverent look at the Old West."

She describes the show as follows. "Tumbleweeds gets its name from a likable cowpoke who tries his best to be an optimist. This isn't easy because he lives in the wretched town of Grimy Gulch, which is populated by such bizarre characters as Hildegard Hamhocker, who's always on the lookout for a husband (any husband as long as it's Tumbleweeds), Judge Frump (who gives everyone a fair and impartial conviction), Colonel Fluster of Fort Ridiculous (he's lost his troops) and a tribe of eccentric Indians called the Poohawks. The play is bursting with good humor, wonderful music, lively lyrics and hilarious jokes."

The production is scheduled for Nov. 22-24.

For more information, call Ms. Gediman at 475-3422.

Cosmo's Restaurant and Lounge continues to offer excellent food and the best service at the same prices in their newly remodeled restaurant. There is a new delightful Gazebo area and the renovated dining room has a more intimate ambiance. The kitchen has also been remodeled to better serve their customers.

Cosmo's Restaurant and Lounge is a family owned business that brings 24 years of experience and knowledge to operating this fine Greek American restaurant. This experience is reflected in the excellence of the food and attention to customer satisfaction. The entire staff, has been with the restaurant since it opened four years ago. Cosmo's has built a reputation for serving excellent quality, home-style cooking at its best. The staff is courteous and friendly, making you feel welcome. Customer satisfaction is the priority, and they make every effort to ensure that your visit is enjoyable.

Greek foods are a specialty, so Cosmo's is the perfect place to enjoy such favorites as roast lamb, souvlakia (lamb on a skewer), dolmades (stuffed grape leaves), Maria's "famous" spinach pie and her "famous" roast potatoes. The "Mediterranean Platter" is a sampling of favorite Greek foods that introduces diners to the delights of Cosmo's ethnic food. The chefs at Cosmo's are lamb specialists, offering baked, on the stick or roasted lamb done to perfection. Their Barb-B-Q chicken and roast lamb are specials served on Friday and Saturday. Mix Mezethes is an hors d'oeuvre that combines calamari, spinach pie and grape leaves. A popular vegetarian plate is served. A selection of seafoods, fresh daily, and steaks is offered. Their Barb-B-Q ribs, slow cooked for four hours, are a favorite. Four specials, that change daily, are also offered.

Examples of these specials are seafood marinated, filet mignon with baked stuffed scallops or shrimp, chicken stirfry and baby back ribs. Every dish is made to perfection, and your meal at Cosmo's will be a memorable one. Cosmo's serves only the finest quality ingredients at reasonable prices. Their fish is fresh daily.

100 Years Ago

The following excerpt from the Daily Messenger, of England, was recently received by an Andover lady from a correspondent in Switzerland, who found it in a hotel. The letter read "People over in Europe think there is nothing old in the United States. The untraveled European associates every American building with glaring red brick and excessive paint. Now comes the news of a town which has celebrated its 250th anniversary. This is rather a venerable age for a municipality. Of course the town is in New England. Its name is Andover, a town well known for its educational standing and its theological polemics. Quite true, they are fond of big things in the United States; yet the fame of this small country town goes to show that even in the land of the stars and stripes, greatness can be achieved without bigness."

The adjourned meeting of the Republicans in Andover, who are furthering the movement of a campaigning club, was held in the Common Room Wednesday evening and there was a larger attendance than at the previous meeting.

50 Years Ago

Arrangements have been made by the Post Office Department in co-operation with the War and Navy Departments (including the Marines) and the Coast Guard for the acceptance of Christmas parcels for members of our armed forces serving outside the Continental United States.

The final session of the West Parish playground was on Friday, Aug. 30. Fifty-four children of the neighborhood were registered and there was an average daily attendance of 20 very enthusiastic and interested children. The
